VERSACE limited-edition Cuo Versace bag

GOLD PLAY

TORONTO

Arm candy alert: Versace is celebrating the opening of its first Canadian boutique with a glammed-up version of its structured Signature handbag. "I designed it to bring to Toronto, for the first time, the unique essence of Versace," says Donatella of the gold-studded design. "I love the combination of luxury and glamour with an artisan touch." Yorkdale Shopping Centre

KRISTA NORRIS COLLECTION $85

IN THE LOOP

The best way to beat the SADs and embrace fall's dipping temperatures? Make like a fashion editor and take comfort in accessorizing. This season we're cozying up to Ottawa designer Krista Norris's Aztec-inspired Infinity scarves. kristanorris.com

OTTAWA

EDMONTON

HUNT AMOR rings, $45 each

TEST YOUR METAL

The best kind of simplicity is as bold as it is understated. Case in point: Edmonton jewellery designers Amor Carandang and Chris Provis's newly launched line, Hunt Amor, which adds edgy appeal to the season's minimalist moment with geometric designs cast in brass, silver and gold. huntamor.com

MONTREAL

VIRTUAL REALITY

Eve Gravel doesn't just want you to wear her '90s-rock-inspired fall collection—she wants you to live it. On her Tumblr, the Montreal-based designer has created a virtual moodboard of this season's inspirations, featuring eerie nature images and graphic shapes and patterns, plus a killer playlist of chilled-out tunes from the likes of Joy Division and The Cure. evegravel.tumblr.com

KLAXON HOWL
Designer Matt Robinson is known for manly menswear with American heritage roots, but this season Klaxon will finally be launching womenswear—and all the tomboys say amen!

TORONTO

BEST IN SHOW

Time to roll out the runway: World MasterCard Fashion Week (Oct. 20–24) is back with another jam-packed showcase of the country's sartorial elite. Here are the designers we're most excited to see...

MALORIE URBANOVITCH
The Edmonton-based newcomer put herself on the map when she won last year's Mercedes-Benz Startup competition. Spring 2015 marks her highly anticipated solo show at the tents.

MACKAGE
We hear Erin Elfassy and Eliza Dahan will be turning up the volume on the Mackage runway with a limited-edition collab with haute headphone maker Friends. Tech really is the new black.
