

LA Petite NOOB

OOTD - EVE GRAVEL

THURSDAY, 23 JUNE 2016

Sometimes, in life and in clothing, you meet 'the one.' In this case, my fated something is the gorgeous, pastel printed dress from Montreal-based designer Eve Gravel. They say that when you know, you know and I definitely knew that this dress and I were meant to be from the moment I laid eyes on it. Call it love at first sight, but it was definitely the pattern of this dress that drew me in; delicate water coloured blues and pinks that look even more beautiful in the sunlight. The shape of the dress is also one of my favourite silhouettes - loose and easy, something that looks just as good with a pair of heels than it does with some sandals while walking Fritz (true story.) For us Canadians, we don't have to look outside of our own country to find gorgeous, unique fashion. Go ahead and shop Canadian-made; you might just fall in love.

Dress - c/o Eve Gravel, Shoes - c/o Evernow

Bucket Bag - c/o Nichiren, Sunglasses - Karen Walker

Side note: the name of this Eve Gravel dress is the 'Gelato' so obviously my nightly treat needed to follow suite.

What do you guys think? Have you ever fallen in love at first sight with clothing? What's your thoughts on patterned dresses? Let me know!
